Arts District Liberty Station is Named a California Cultural District

We are excited to announce that Arts District Liberty Station has been officially designated as one of California's newest California Cultural Districts by the California Arts Council. This prestigious recognition celebrates our district's cultural significance and our ongoing commitment to arts, creativity, and community connection. This designation brings statewide recognition and new opportunities to strengthen our programming, support artists, and expand access to the arts. We are honored to join this distinguished group of cultural districts and look forward to continuing our mission of fostering creativity and enriching San Diego's cultural landscape.
